I understand, from Cairncross, that you have very kindly agreed to sponsor our organisation with Mr. McQueen of the General Electric Company. As you know, it is not easy for us to introduce ourselves and we are very glad that you can vouch for us.

The request we have to put before him is an urgent one concerning the secondment of a radio supplies officer. If we come to McQueen under your auspices, he, as chairman of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, is the most likely person to find us a suitable man in the trade.

The Cabinet Report on skilled radio personnel scarcely seems to affect us, since our demands for the type of men discussed is very small, and our staff has so far been obtained mainly from sources other than those mentioned.

It may, however, be indirectly affected, by the pressure on our sources of supply being less in future.

1. As you are seeing Lord HANKEY this morning, I wondered whether you could possibly ask him to tell Mr. MCQUEEN of the General Electric Co., who is on Lord HANKEY's Wireless Committee and Chairman of the Radio Manufacturers Association, that the Department represented by me is a respectable one and that Mr. MCQUEEN should give us all the assistance he can.
2. The point at issue is actually the acquirement of a radio supplies officer for my department, who can negotiate supplies of radio equipment and generally act for me on matters concerning the Wireless Section of Station IX.
3. Mr. MCQUEEN, with his position as Chairman of the Radio Manufacturers Association, is supposed to be the most likely person to find a man out of the trade who will be suitable for our work.

My dear Air Commodore,

With reference to our talk yesterday evening I have, for some considerable time, felt that many of the misunderstandings which have arisen in connection with my liaison work with S.O.S have been due to the difficulty of my not having closer contact with the heads of country sections, as a whole, and that just meeting them individually, as I have done from time to time, has not made it possible to get down to a defined general policy.

As I told you some six months ago, when I first took on the liaison with S.I.S., equivalent of your country sections, much the same difficulties prevailed. A.C.S.S. has now been for some time prepared to work closely with me and deal with the problems which arise and questions of major policy with the sections which come under his control.

I feel sure that if you could see your way to arranging for, at present, a weekly meeting with yourself in the chair and the heads of your country sections which I could attend, much progress would be made in solving the many little problems which they have in regard to R/T communication. It would also give me the opportunity of meeting them and working more closely with them for I can assure you that it is only by this means that I feel I can be of real service.

At present I am in London every Tuesday and then later in the week, usually Friday, dealing with S.I.S. communications. If neither of these days are suitable to you I shall be only too glad to attend on some other day of the week, except Thursdays which is the day I have allotted to your school at Grandon Underwood.

I can assure you that I am more than anxious to try and get your communication problem running as smoothly and establish as friendly relations with your country sections as those which now exist with myself and the S.I.S. Sections.

Yours sincerely,

18th September 1941.

My dear Archie,

I am sorry I did not keep my promise in writing to you yesterday, but I ran into a pretty considerable jam with our American friends who are over here.

The three matters we discussed are summarised below. These seem to resolve the principle outstanding problems relating to S.C.2 communications policy.

1. We are arranging for the installation by our engineering staff of a transmitting and receiving station in the Shetlands. This station will not be used until operational requirements dictate. It will be tested with a low-powered station being operated by an agent from Norway, and it will also be tested for communications with my base headquarters.

The operators for this station will be ear-marked and kept in reserve in the event that it is likely to be required for operational purposes.

2. Increased base station facilities. At a meeting last Friday C.D. expressed the doubt whether facilities at my base station were sufficient to safeguard the interests of S.C.2 in the event that the whole, or part, of their major plans came to maturity and a large numbers of organisers and operators were parachuted, or otherwise delivered, in an area of practical operations. I explained to C.D. that an additional station duplicating that which is now used for the reception of radio equipped agents was in effect in the course of preparation, and assured him that this station and its appropriate personnel would be ready to deal with any operational situation by the time it would arise.

My yard-stick on base station requirements is essentially the number of agents under training for S.I.S. operations which is always known to us, plus the number of agents under final W/T training for S.C.2 at their establishment at Grendon Underwood. At the present moment these two requirements are about equal and are quite modest.

It is realized however that there must be a considerable increase in the number of trained W/T agents operating for S.C.2 if the plans submitted to the Chiefs of Staff Committee mature. I have, therefore, agreed that the duplicate station referred to above shall be used exclusively for communication between my base station and S.C.2 agents so long as the number of agents justifies.

3. Foreign Communications controlled by S.C.2. At last Friday's meeting, and previously at other meetings, C.I. and Lt. Colonel Taylor have pressed C.S.S. for his agreement with the policy that S.C.2 should conduct their own communication systems between base stations working with secret agents situated at the following four points:-

- 1) North Eastern Indian Frontier for operations into Afghanistan, Waziristan and Persia.
- 2) Lagos for operations in West Africa.
- 3) Cairo for operations in the Middle and Near East and the Balkan countries.
- 4) Singapore (or some other suitable point for Far Eastern operations.)

The implied arrangement is that S.O.2 base stations at these four points should receive communications from secret agents and transmit messages to them, but that the resultant intelligence should follow the normal procedure and be transmitted home on existing S.I.S. main line channels.

C.S.S. sent me this proposal for observations. I have observed to him and at the meeting last Friday that I am in perfect agreement with the proposals with the following qualifications:-

- 1) That S.O.2 provide the personnel and equipment of the base stations at all four points.
- 2) That S.O.2 undertake the training and equipping of the secret agents.
- 3) That S.O.2 undertake the provision of suitable sets for use by the agents.
- 4) That the local S.I.S. representative will co-operate in every way possible and provide full information to the local S.O.2 representative of our experience and knowledge of operating secret communication channels, but his responsibilities end with the provision of such advice and he has no responsibility whatsoever that the resultant communications operate.
- 5) That before allocating frequencies for use by either a base station or secret agents, the S.O.2 representative will consult the local S.I.S. signals representative to ensure that there is no mutual interference and that the best frequencies are chosen to ensure satisfactory results.

With regard to (4) a telegram, of which I attach a copy, has been received from our representative at Singapore, which appears to make a counter proposal to the suggestion of your London Head Office for independent communications in the Far East.

I consider that the proposal in this telegram is the ideal solution to the problem; but if the principal executives of your organisation consider that despite this joint recommendation of their representative and ours, an entirely independent organisation should be set up in the Far East, I am still only too ready to co-operate and afford every possible assistance.

Yours ever,

(Signed) JAMILLER

8.0.2. COMMUNICATIONS

and

THEIR RELATIONSHIP WITH S.I.S.

- (1) Our relationship with the "C" Organisation as regards Communications is defined in Annex II of a paper dated October, 1940, entitled "Severance". The relevant passage reads:-

"C will continue to afford to D such facilities for the use of S.I.S. signals as are consistent with the requirements and security of S.I.S. In fact, but these communications will remain under the control of C. S.O. 2, for its record, a telegram submitted by D, for transmission by C, is rejected by the latter, C.D. will, of course, be informed, in which case he will endeavour to make other arrangements."

- (2) The PRESENT POSITION is as follows:-

(a) Agents in the field.

All communications with agents are operating illicit w/T are entered for by S.I.S. In practice, this confines itself almost entirely to Western Europe, with one exception - an agent in Roumania.

(b) Communications between British Legations and Neutral Countries to the U.K.

S.O. 2. have recently instituted their own Code, Department and are gradually switching over from S.I.S. signals to commercial or service channels. They do, however, rely on S.I.S. for certain countries and would always like to have the use of S.I.S. with regard to wireless as a contingency. S.I.S. are in a recent letter is arranged to, as it relieves them of a great deal of routine traffic.

- (3) S.O. 2. feel that as regards communications based on U.K. (i.e. France to U.K., Norway to U.K., etc.) all illicit traffic from Occupied Countries should be handled by S.I.S.

Micro-wave communication will, however, be handled by S.O. 2. and S.I.S. jointly. Naturally, S.I.S. can be a part of the arrangement to exploit it is a system of communication, and will take so much of it.

- (4) S.O. 2. would maintain the right to operate their own research department, but S.I.S. would, as a general rule, refuse to operate the apparatus of S.O. 2.'s research department.

- (5) As regards communications to and from British territories into other territories, S.O. 2. would have the right to set up their own channels of communication, naturally keeping S.I.S. in the background for all their requirements and progress. This will also apply to inter-communication between S.O. 2. main line channels, i.e. Cairo to Singapore, etc.

- (6) As regards communication back to U.K. from S.O. 2. main line stations, S.O. 2. will continue to use commercial and service lines (see para. (2)(a)) and will not set up a station

U.S. COMMUNICATIONS IN AMERICAN ARMY

1st August, 1941.

My dear Jebb,

I am very much obliged to you for letting me have the enclosed papers. I am sending them back to you by the hand of Squadron Leader Long who I think you know. He is the liaison officer on communications matters between my organization and S.C.2.

I am very glad to have had this opportunity to study, for the first time, the long term objectives of S.C.2., and it has helped me immensely in getting a focus on what may be their communication requirements. I am sure you will not mind my remarking that some of the references to existing communications in the paper "S.C. 282" of the 21st April, are a little optimistic in fact!

We had a satisfactory meeting in the Cabinet Offices yesterday at which Davis tabled some requirements for sets which are in themselves perfectly easy to realise in terms of equipment. The only problem of slightly expert personnel at this end for the reception of the resulting traffic, is likely to be the thing which is the most difficult to overcome; and I suggested that whatever the Chiefs of Staff Committee may decide with regard to the whole project, a strong recommendation should be made now that if it is to be supported by the proper proportion of communications, the question of expert man-power should come under examination immediately.

Davis of course admitted, and quite rightly, that the requirements, as tabled, were something of a shot in the dark, and that each number might vary in the different countries plus or minus. But it does, at any rate, give us some yard-stick to work on. We are having a further meeting of Boyle, Davis, myself and others concerned to study other requirements elsewhere, but I think the right yard-stick, now that we have this yard-stick, would be for S.C.2. to let us have an abridged over

2. At the present stage, it is virtually impossible, except in the case of the United States, to state exactly what the requirements are for the various countries. It is not until we have a more definite idea of the requirements of the various countries, that we can make a more definite statement. It is, however, the duty of the various countries to make a statement of their requirements, and to let us have an abridged version of the operational plans envisaged. So that we can apply to it our trained communication brains and recommend what communications should be provided to make the operations successful, and how these communications should best be conducted. In other words let the communication experts contribute to the formation of the plan in the same way as do the explosive experts or the experts in parachute dropping and air transport.

If it were possible for me to have a copy to retain of each of these three documents I would be very grateful, and give you my assurance that they would not depart from my personal safe.

Yours sincerely,

I attach copy of the paper which was submitted to the meeting of the F.O.P.S. yesterday afternoon.

This involves both the British and German and the Secret Armies; and if these are to be properly treated in the future, the time on the air is likely to be spent at intervals over a period of time, say, one month, but rather than in the progress of the operations.

At the present stage, it is virtually impossible, and it is not possible, to state exactly what the operations will be in the future. The operations will be carried out in a series of stages, and it is not possible to state exactly what the disposition will be, as, for example, the operations will be carried out with suitable cover, and it is not possible to arranged at this end.

- C. In this survey, we have omitted the question of internal communication within the countries themselves. At the present moment, it is assumed that the internal communication will be handled by the countries themselves.
- D. The following is a preliminary assessment of J.C.2. requirements as regards J.C.2. stations and sets in the under-mentioned countries.

1. ICELAND: As far as J.C.2. is concerned, six channels are envisaged, to be situated, two in each of the three areas, for the Reykjavik, Akureyri and Hovur areas.

Each station should have one set operational and one standby.

The sets, therefore, required for Iceland, amount to 12 sets.

2. Denmark: Three channels will be required for Denmark, situated in the three areas, one in each area. Again, each station will require one operational and one standby.

The sets, therefore, required for Denmark, are 6 sets.

3. Netherlands: Three channels will be required for the Netherlands, in the following areas:-

Amsterdam (2)
Rotterdam (1)
The Hague (1)
S. Rotterdam (1)

The total number of sets required for the Netherlands is 6 sets (three operational and one standby).

4. Belgium: Three channels will be required for Belgium in the following areas:-

Brussels
Antwerp
Ghent
Louvain
Namur
Liège
Aachen

At each of these stations, one set operational and one standby.

5. France: France is split into 10 administrative regions. It is assumed that one channel will be required in each region.

In each of these regions, one set operational and one standby are required for each of the 10 channels.

Therefore, in the preliminary assessment, the total number of sets required for the J.C.2. stations is 30 sets (10 operational and 20 standby).

SECRET.

24th May, 1941.

1948.

I send you herewith copies of two minutes by Verner, dated 22nd and 23rd May respectively, regarding a new transmitter, together with a draft telegram to Washington prepared by Verner after discussion with Verner.

You will see what the proposal is and you will also see that it has received the sanction of the Prime Minister. The whole matter is still very secret indeed and neither the B.B.C., nor the Ministry of Information at present knows anything about it.

In point of fact, the whole affair will be worked by C.O.I. since the interruptions by the new "Great Voice" will take place at times which will have to be kept secret, and its function will be definitely "subversive" - so please keep the whole thing very much to yourself. The B.B.C. will only come into it so far as the enemy may try to indulge in jamming.

ROBIN is going off in the Clipper very shortly so we should be extremely grateful if the telegram to Washington could be sent without delay.

M. J. d'Al. Hopkinson Esq.,
Foreign Office.

OUT SECRET.

Herewith copy of my Minute to the Treasury dated 22nd May relative to financial sanction for the purchase and erection of a special "all-powerful" wireless transmitter and the subsequent running costs. Mr. Brittain's agreement which he gave at an interview I had with him to-day is duly signified thereon.

Subsequent to my interview at the Treasury I met at Mr. Jaitskell's request Mr. H. K. Robin who is proceeding to New York by Clipper this week-end to effect the purchase from I.C.A.

In view of the necessity of making the dollar funds available in as secret a fashion as possible, I then called on Mr. Herwood at the Foreign Office and, subject to Mr. Hopkins's approval, it has been arranged that a telegram to the Ambassador, Washington, shall be sent on the lines of the enclosed draft, from which you will see that the Ambassador is requested to make available to New York, funds in such form as he may request £450,000. If this telegram is approved and sent, the Bank will be instructed to remit £450,000 to the Embassy next week. I will refund the Foreign Office in sterling.

I have also seen C and explained the financial side and quite approves of the matter being handled through £6,000 on the suggested lines.

In this connection a telegram will be sent to Mr. Robin advising him very briefly of Robin's mission and I will detail the financial aspect when he arrives.

Would you therefore, if you approve, draft a telegram (which has been initialled by Mr. S. S. Mr. Hopkinson requesting him, if he approves, to arrange despatch.

With reference to the attached telegram I should like to record the tentative arrangement which I came to some time ago with "C", who raised with me the question of S.O. communications. The proposal was as follows :-

I should be most grateful if you could through your usual channels obtain the most urgently required by our Wireless Department.

With reference to the above of the 27th
I should like to record the tentative agreement which I came to some time ago with the British with the question of S.S. communications. The proposal was as follows:-

That C.O.2 should have their own clearing department and their own officers, but they should only correspond by telegraph with their representatives in Jerusalem. This was done for the reserves for all telegrams, for one person for the C.O.2 did not want to go to the clearing office. The clearing office, even to the cases mentioned above would, however, continue to be handled by C.O.2 officers. The representatives in Jerusalem and the reserves should have the same facilities in the rare event of the reserves being needed between themselves they could only use "C", or so the telegrams were for revision by us.

I think that this proposal is sensible for a number of reasons. In the first place, to call on our right to correspond with our own people we must to anybody else. It is a matter of fact, we could normally see C.O.2 officers informed of such correspondence. It seems to me that it seems to me that it would be a great deal better for us to get a communication department of our own to handle all our communications. The third reason is that the decision is really a security of ours is very important one. It is an experience. It is anxious to work in it. It is as we can do so without sacrificing our own interests.

6th May, 1941.

I was delighted to receive your letter of the 5th May, saying that you had been able to provide 'C' with the necessary operators, and I send you the warmest thanks of 'C.O.B.' for your powerful and successful intervention.

I must protest, however, that I do not think I ever said that you did not appreciate our organisation! All I went so far as to suggest was that you might, not unnaturally, give preference to the Service Departments over S.O.B.

As it is, we are really beginning to see a ray of light at the end of our tunnel and we shall always remember that this ray was in fact, provided by the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Yours faithfully, GLADYNN JEBB.

From: S.

I saw A.C.S.S. this morning at Broadway, and by proceeding carefully on the lines followed by OD yesterday and asking for his views, I got him to put forward himself the suggestion that there should be in the Shetland Islands a separate radio station for communication with Norway.

He told me that he was sure that this was the proper way out of our difficulty, that such a station should be built by E, if he was able to take on the job, and that it should be run jointly for C and S.O.S. on the same lines as the base is at present.

He warned me that the proposal would be strenuously opposed by Gambier Parry, and said we must lay our plans to meet and overcome opposition from this quarter.

He made the following suggestions:

(a) That the suggestion should be put up in concrete form in a letter from OD to C.S.S.

(b) That the letter should be accompanied by a technical note from E as to the advantages which would accrue from the establishment of a separate station in the Shetlands, and as to the extent to which he would need to draw upon C or other outside sources for the equipment necessary to build such a station.

(c) That we should put the proposition up as one which would assist C to deal with his immense burden, and that in doing so we should be prepared to answer the objection by Gambier Parry that such a station would not really save him anything as the messages which were received would all have to be transmitted to London through his organisation in any event, so that he might as well take them in direct from Norway.

(d) That we should be prepared to counteract Gambier Parry's obvious objection that it would be impossible to find the necessary wireless operators for an independent station of this kind.

My comments on these various points are as follows:

(a) If E will let me have the information required from him, I will draft the letter. A.C.S.S. suggested that it should contain a statement that after discussion with me he was personally strongly in favour of establishing such a station.

(b) I should like to discuss these questions with E in the immediate future.

(c) Here again I should like to have an immediate discussion with E before the matter proceeds further.

(d) I discussed this point with A.C.S.S. at some length and finally suggested to him that the best way would be to approach the Norwegian Foreign Minister with a request that he should obtain say two wireless operators from Norwegian merchant ships which/

which had been sunk or damaged, to do the work. A.C.S.S. and I considered carefully the objections on security grounds which Gambier Parry would be likely to put forward in opposition to such an arrangement, and we felt that these objections could be overcome with careful handling.

May I please have authority to proceed on the lines that I have indicated?

It is at least encouraging that Lord Hankey should say that he is not at all unhelpful about the

My dear Gladwyn,

The Chiefs of Staff have passed your most secret letter (W.1951) of the 12th April asking for some additional operators for S.O.E. to me.

I am not at all unhopeful about the operators, though I hope that the demand for radio mechanics will be limited as much as possible. I do not endorse your view that "there is little, if any, hope of obtaining additional men through him" particularly as the number is so small. I think you do me an injustice in saying that I put "the needs of the Service Departments first and those of the S.O.E. second!" I put you very high!

However, I have written to Menzies and asked him to let me know in detail the sort of men he requires, and I shall certainly do my utmost to find them for him. I will keep you in touch with the result of my inquiries.

Yours ever,

Hankey
